

Claims:

1. A method for controlling speed of a vehicle, comprising:
 - detecting a braking condition;
 - slipping a first clutch during the braking condition while the vehicle engine is
 - 5 operating at a reduced engine speed; and
 - slipping a second clutch during the braking condition to maintain a torque converter at an approximately constant low speed.